Many Flee As Big Dam Collapses

BENNETTSVILLE, S. C. — One section of a large earth dam system gave way without warning here today, sending millions of gallons of water through a residential section where hundreds were sleeping. Police spotted the break moments after it occurred, however, and roused residents with the town's fire alarm. The section was evacuated quickly, and a check was being made to determine whether or not there were drownings.

Half the water from a 300-acre twin lake poured through the Negro residential area in a broad stream that reached depths of five feet or more. There was concern earlier that remaining dam sections might give way and release the other half of the lake but police reported shortly before dawn that "the danger is over."

150 Families Evacuated

Policeman H. M. Driggers said approximately 150 families from the flooded area had been evacuated to a school, the town armory and the homes of relatives. "We haven't been able to make an accurate check yet, because the people are all scattered and the big problem now is to get them fed," he added. "But I'd say there are more than 300 of them."

Driggers said the flooded area consisted of about 12 blocks crowded with homes. The section was annexed by the city recently.

The water was receding slowly, officers said, but was reported threatening to break a smaller private dam several miles downstream.

Lake 18 Months Old

The twin lakes were built about 18 months ago by the state wildlife commission. Water was impounded through construction of a unique T-shaped dam system requiring thousands of yards of dirt.

The break came in the 200-yard long main dam across the creek-bed, near a concrete spillway serving one of the lakes. The lake was about 16 feet deep immediately behind the dam.

The lakes had been above their normal level for about two months, a policeman said, "but nobody dreamed there was any danger of them being full enough to break."

Police Sound Fire Alarm

Bennettsville police said they discovered the break moments after it occurred and sounded the city's fire alarm to warn citizens living below the dam.

Mrs. Nellie Williams, who fled her home along with her husband and her sister-in-law said the water was "knee deep when we left and was rising all the time."

Mrs. Williams estimated that about five hundred to seven hundred persons live in the affected area. A whole lot of them have children which they carried with them.

Most of the residents fled the rising water in their night clothing, with only a coat thrown about them.

Mrs. Williams said her husband carried her to safety, then returned to the house to get her pocketbook.

The break came about 2:45.

Police reported the water was receding in most places, but that the danger was increasing downstream where water was backing up behind a private dam.

The lake consists of one large main dam across the creek bed.

Mrs. Hart Is Speaker At Faculty Meet

The Murray Faculty Club met March 13 at 6:30 p.m. in the library of the Murray High School.

Mrs. George Hart, the speaker of the evening, was introduced by Mrs. Doherty, president of the local P.T.A.

Mrs. Hart discussed her experiences as delegate to the National P.T.A. Convention in Cincinnati and as State Board Chairman of the High School Service Committee. She stressed the tremendous importance of the P.T.A. pointing out that the power and leadership must come from the local units. She said that the P.T.A. under school guidance and leadership of interested parents can give an aid that cannot be measured.

The standard will be eastern or central — both of which are observed in Kentucky.

Sen. John C. Angell (D-Lexington) Thursday introduced a resolution asking Congress and the Interstate Commerce Commission to shift the Eastern Standard Time zone westward in Kentucky as far as Jefferson and Nelson counties.

Rep. Ralph O. Stith (D-Breckinridge) introduced an amendment Friday memorializing the ICC for tampering with the standard time boundaries in Kentucky.

The governor had held the time bills for nine days, after the House where it originated, approved an amendment tacked on by the Senate.

An opinion by the state attorney general's office issued Friday said it is "quite possible" that the Kentucky Court of Appeals will uphold the time law.

An opinion written by Walter C. Herdman, first assistant attorney general, said the question of the new law's constitutionality would revolve around its first provision.

This provision raises the question of whether the time provision "constitutes an arbitrary exercise of the police power of this state, and in effect, amounts to trespass upon individual liberties" in violation of the state Constitution.

Grace And New Son Doing Well

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — Princess Grace and her one-day old son, Prince Albert Alexandre Louis Pierre, spent an "excellent" night, her physician reported today.

In fact, Grace felt so well after presenting her husband with a male heir to the throne of Monaco she tucked away a light snack of hamburger, baby onions and baby carrots.

The birth of the boy touched off celebrations which continued today. Last night a festive crowd of 3,000 made such a ruckus that a palace guard shushed them and asked them not to wake the baby.

This morning, the beaming Princess appeared on the balcony of the sun-drenched palace to be serenaded by the guitars, mandolins and songs of a monegasque folk music group.

Rainier, a broad and happy smile on his face, held little Princess Caroline—Grace's first-born—in his left arm.

The 13-month old princess, dressed all in white, happily beat time to the music with a red flower clutched in her right fist. Rainier proudly waved and nodded to the crowds massed in the square below.

Law Signed Banning Daylight Saving Time In Kentucky

FRANKFORT — Gov. A. B. Chandler Friday signed into law the legislation which bans the observance of any time, but standard time in Kentucky.

The bill forbids any place of business or city, state or county government agency to use anything but standard time and forbids allocating state funds to local governments not adhering to standard time. It also provides fines and jail sentences for individual violators.

There is no emergency clause in the legislation so it will become law 90 days after the General Assembly adjourns next week.

The standard will be eastern or central — both of which are observed in Kentucky.

Goals Of City Planning Commission Are Formed

Pattern Will Decide Growth Of City For Many Years

Truman Replies To Hiroshima Council

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — Former President Truman told the people of Hiroshima Friday that the World War II atom destruction of their city saved thousands of lives and was "urgent and necessary for the prospective welfare of both Japan and the Allies."

Truman, in reply to a protest from the Hiroshima city council, also refused to retract a statement he made on a television program — that nuclear warfare should be used whenever necessary.

Truman's refusal to retract of the Hiroshima resolution, adopted Feb. 13 by the city council, protesting the above statement and another remark that he felt "no compunction" after ordering the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The Truman reply stated it was "necessary for me to remind the city council of some historical events."

Truman said military advisers had warned him that it would require at least one and one-half million allied soldiers to "land on the Tokyo plain and on the south island of Japan."

"After a long conference with the cabinet, the military commander and Prime Minister Churchill, it was decided to drop the atom bomb on two Japanese cities devoted to war work," Truman wrote.

Artist Is Charged With Branding Wife

NEW YORK — Police today charged a middle-aged commercial artist with felonious assault in connection with the "branding" of his wife in their $350-a-month Park Avenue apartment.

Mrs. Jean Baquedano, 52, was taken to Bellevue Hospital Friday night, unconscious and suffering from a pattern of multiple burns of the torso.

Her condition was listed as critical and doctors gave her less than an even chance of recovering.

Her husband, Armando, also 52, denied harming his wife through eight hours of questioning by detectives. Police said Baquedano, who also is sometimes known as Armando Artime, told them he had been drinking Thursday night, returning home at 3 a.m. Friday.

Baquedano said he did not know how his wife had received the burns. No cigar stubs were found in the room, but several burned book matches were discovered on the floor.

Storm Pattern Brings New Snow

By UNITED PRESS

The whip end of an "amazingly" long weather pattern extending from the Dakotas fell with a crack on the East, causing a rash of gale winds, severe thunderstorms and new snows.

Along the New England Coast Friday night, 65-mile-an-hour wind drove beds up to four feet above normal, and a Coast Guard cutter put out into 12-foot seas to rescue a disabled fishing boat.

There were 10 inches of snow reported at Worcester, Mass., and unofficial reports of foot-high snows in the Berkshire Mountains running through Massachusetts and Connecticut were received.

The new outbreak of weather violence followed an early March lull after an unusually hard winter.

Now in its fourth day, the storm's heaviest blows were delivered in the Northeast. Snow was still falling early today, topping 10-inch snows left in the night stages.

Moderate temperatures caused the mushy snows to snarl traffic in New York City. With 6 to 10 inches of snow in the northern suburbs, commuter trains were slowed, and airline traffic cancelled and delayed.

The soaking snows snapped power lines, cutting off electricity to 50,000 consumers on Long Island while thousands of lights blinked out in Bucks County, Pennsylvania homes.

Racing was called off at Lincoln Downs racetrack in Rhode Island, when jockeys refused to ride their steeds in the swirling snows.

At least 11 persons were killed in weather-caused accidents, a United Press survey showed, since the storm burgeoned out of the Gulf of Mexico Wednesday.

Today's forecast showed continued flurries from the Dakotas into New England, as well as in the Upper Ohio Valley.

Leopold Leaves By Plane For Puerto Rico

NEW YORK — Paroled thrill killer Nathan Leopold left by plane early today for Puerto Rico to begin a new life as a servant of mankind.

Leopold, released Thursday from the Joliet, Ill., prison where he had spent 33 years of a life sentence for the senseless slaying of young Bobby Franks, received a celebrity's greeting on his arrival at New York's International Airport.

"I am sorry, but as part of my parole I cannot answer any questions," Leopold told newsmen as photographers took pictures.

He spent almost all of the nearly four hours of his layover in New York talking to his traveling companion, W. Harold Brown, official of the church of the Brethren Hospital at Castaner, P. R., where Leopold will work as a $10-a-month hospital technician.

Leopold also telephoned poet Carl Sandburg, one of the men who appealed for his release, and Ralph Newman, a Chicago book shop operator.

Even before Leopold took off for what he hoped would be a trip to oblivion, he was assured of a warm welcome in Puerto Rico.

Samuel R. Quinones, president of the Puerto Rican Senate, quoted Shakespeare in a pre-arrival statement in San Juan. "Shakespeare answers for Puerto Rico," Quinones said. "The quality of mercy is not strained. It blesses him that gives and him that takes."

Senator Offers Help

"He can be sure that in Puerto Rico he shall have what he desires," Quinones said. "He has suffered the experience of suffering shall undoubtedly inspire him to help those who suffer in the little hospital near Adjunta's Skirts."

Leopold and Brown boarded their plane in New York by a circuitous route to avoid other passengers. They got aboard the plane ahead of other passengers. When photographers asked Leopold to pose, he turned to them without smiling.

"Good luck," a newsmen shouted.

"Thanks you," Leopold replied without turning his head.

L. C. Martin Is Placed In Eddyville

L. C. Martin was sent to Eddyville last week, when he was charged with forging several checks using the name of Glenn Reeves.

Martin was on probation after having been charged with storehouse breaking in the last term of circuit court. His sentence was suspended, however, and he was on probation for the charge.

When he was arrested on the forgery charge, Martin's sentence was then imposed.

No Contact Is Made By Sub

NEW LONDON, Conn. — The skipper of the atomic submarine Seawolf was quoted Friday night as saying his craft established no contact with another sub during an Atlantic Coast search touched off by reports of Russian undersea craft.

Lt. Cmdr. John W. Smith, duty officer at the Seawolf's home base here, issued the statement after Navy spokesmen earlier had refused to say whether Soviet submarines were sighted during the search.

The spokesman merely confirmed that the Seawolf had been ordered on the search for "unidentified contacts" off the East Coast two weeks ago. He said the atomic sub was on a "routine mission" out of Key West, Fla., when it was ordered Feb. 27 to join other fleet ships following up the "contacts."

Walsh said the Seawolf investigated the "contacts" and returned to New London several hours late.

The Navy has admitted several times previously that Soviet subs have been spotted for some time in Atlantic waters.

Egghead Defended By Von Braun

WASHINGTON — Any egghead has the sympathy of Dr. Werner von Braun, who holds that it takes a lot of "drive" and sheer courage to be one.

The "father" of the Explorer satellite said eggheads must have courage to be different.

"The greatest thinkers all over the world are single-minded and poorly adjusted socially," von Braun said two House education subcommittee Friday.

Von Braun said any legislation to bolster scientific and mathematics education will have "very little" to speed missile and satellite programs in the near future. For the next five years, he said, "we have to work with what we have."

He said one problem is that some children develop very late. "I flunked classes in math and physics when I was 12 or 13," he admitted.

Baylor's 30 Foot Shot In Final Two Seconds Gets Win

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer

Elgin Baylor's dramatic 30-foot shot with two seconds left to play and Kansas State's "stopping" of Oscar Robertson were the highlights of the NC-AA basketball tournament today going into the final rounds of the four regional eliminations.

Baylor uncorked the most important basket so far in the tournament Friday night to give Seattle a 69-67 victory over San Francisco in the regional at San Francisco.

Robertson, Baylor's arch-rival for the national scoring championship, fouled out with four minutes left to play in overtime at Lawrence, Kans., as his Cincinnati team bowed to Kansas State 83-80. The defeats of Cincinnati, and San Francisco, plus that of West Virginia on Tuesday, complete a clean sweep of the teams ranked 1-2-3 in the nation at the end of the regular season.

Tonight's Action

Here's the lineup for the regional finals tonight:

At Charlotte, N.C.: Temple vs. Dartmouth.

At Lexington, Ky.: Notre Dame vs. Kentucky.

At Lawrence, Kans.: Kansas vs. Oklahoma State.

At San Francisco: California vs. Seattle.

The Charlotte winner will meet the Lexington winner at Louisville, Ky., March 21, for the eastern NCAA championship. The Lawrence winner will meet the San Francisco winner at the same site the same night for the western title. The following night eastern and western champions clash for the national crown.

The National Invitation Tournament also resumes today with day and night doubleheaders. In the afternoon, it's Niagara-Xavier of Ohio (first round) and Utah-St. John's (quarter final). At night, it's Portland-St. Francis (Pa.) (first round), and St. Bonaventure-St. Joseph's (Pa.) (quarter final).

South Dakota Takes Crown

The first national champion was crowned Friday night at Knoxville, Ind., when South Dakota, led by Jimmy Daniels' 40 points, whipped St. Michael's of Vermont, 75-53, in the finals of the NCAA small college tournament.

But that easy win was overshadowed by the dramatics in the major-college show as Baylor led his team to victory and Robertson failed. Robertson, 30 points against Baylor's 35, retained the national scoring lead, however, with a 34.3 average to Baylor's 33.68.

Here's how Friday night's games went:

At Charlotte Temple nipped Maryland, 71-67, and Dartmouth's Ivy League champs ousted Manhattan, 79-62, a surprisingly easy win over the team that eliminated regular season champion West Virginia.

At Lexington, Notre Dame ripped Indiana, 94-87, as Tom Hawkins scored 31 points and crippled Indiana by drawing fouls from the Hoosiers.

Three-time NCAA champ Kentucky simply romped over Miami of Ohio, 94-70, despite 26 points by Wayne Embry.

At Lawrence: After Robertson fouled out Cincinnati coasted to a 75-67 win over the Bearcats.

George Smith complained about three "charging" fouls called against him. Oklahoma State crushed Arkansas, 65-40, as 6-9 Arlen Clark showed the way with 20 points.

At San Francisco: California easily downed Idaho State, 44-43, as Earl Robinson took scoring honors with 13 points. In the Seattle-San Francisco game, the stage was set for Baylor when Art Day of San Francisco missed one of two free throws with 15 seconds, leaving the score tied at 67-67. Baylor then drove downcourt and uncorked his winning one-hander just before the gun.

Western Illinois (27-0) meets Tennessee A&I tonight in the final round of the NAAIA tournament at Kansas City. Western Illinois rallied to beat Georgetown (Ky.), 86-81, and defending champion Tennessee A & I trounced Tennessee Southern, 110-85, in Friday night's semi-finals.

Ballard Memorial Out As

Indians Try For Big Tie Tonight To Enter State Tournament

Dangerous Ballard Memorial bowed out of the First Regional Tournament last night as the Benton Indians fought off the Bombers, 59-55, to gain entrance into the final tonight. It's the second affair North Marshall rolled over Symsonia, 91-64.

Marshall County rivals, Benton and North Marshall, will meet for the fourth time this season tonight. The North Marshall Jets have emerged victorious in two of the three encounters. Tonight's clash will decide which of the two top First Region powers will make the trip of the "select sixteen" to the state tournament. An over flow crowd is expected to gather at the MSC Sports Arena for the event.

Benton took the tip but Ballard led in the opening period and the Bombers ran up a 12-4 lead. Memorial held a six-point advantage at the end of the first quarter, 14-8.

The Indians scored six consecutive points at the outset of the second quarter to pull within one point, 19-14. With four minutes left, J. D. Gammel knotted the count for the first time, 19-19. Seconds later Benton took its first lead of the contest on a bucket by Little Monte Peck. Jerry Newton and Ed Turner combined efforts to tie the score, 25-25, but Benton scored five straight points to lead, 30-25 at halftime.

Gammel scored for the Indians as the second half got underway but the stubborn Bombers fought back and Gene Poole pushed Ballard into the lead again, 35-34 with four minutes remaining in the period. A see-saw battle for the lead saw Benton out on top by one slim point, 46-45, at the end of the third stanza.

Monte Peck added to the Benton cause with a field goal as the Indians took the opening tip but Ed Turner scored two baskets to deadlock the contest, 49-49. Ballard was able to tie the score on two other occasions, 53-53, and 55-55. But each time Joe Dan Gold broke the deadlock with a one-hand jump shot. Peck added a charity toss to account for the final score, 59-55.

Ed Turner was high point man for the contest with 21 points. Newton added 12 for the Bombers and Vaughn pushed in for 24 points. Butler had 11 and Smith tossed in 10.

The Jets led 23-14 at the end of the first quarter and 44-32 at halftime.

Four players on the North squad scored in double figures in recording the triumph. Hall led the way with 22 points. Both Lamprey and Hicks hit for 20. Larimer connected for 13 before fouling out.

Larry McClure, star guard for the Symsonia Rough Riders, hit for 24 points. Butler had 11 and Smith tossed in 10.

Every since North Marshall's win over Benton in the finals of the district tournament last week people have been speculating on the outcome of a possible meeting in the regional. Possibility is now reality as the national in a fight to the finish for the Guld.

Baylor's 30 Foot Shot In Final Two Seconds Gets Win

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer
Elgin Baylor's dramatic 30-foot shot with two seconds left to play and Kansas State's "stopping" of Oscar Robertson were the highlights of the NCAA basketball tournament today going into the final rounds of the four regional eliminations.

Baylor uncorked the most important basket so far in the court carnival Friday night to give Seattle a 69-67 victory over San Francisco in the regional at San Francisco.

Robertson, Baylor's arch-rival for the national scoring championship, fouled out with four minutes left to play in overtime at Lawrence, Kan., as his Cincinnati team bowed to Kansas State 83-80. The defeat of Cincinnati and San Francisco, plus that of West Virginia on Tuesday, complete a clean sweep the team ranked 1-2-3 in the nation at the end of the regular season.

Tonight's Action
Here's the lineup for the regional finals tonight:
At Charlotte, N.C.: Temple vs. Dartmouth.
At Lexington, Ky.: Notre Dame vs. Kentucky.
At Lawrence, Kans.: Kansas

At Charlotte Temple nipped Maryland, 71-67, and Dartmouth's Ivy League champs ousted Manhattan, 79-62, a surprisingly easy win over the team that eliminated regular season champion West Virginia.

At Lexington, Notre Dame ripped Indiana, 94-87, as Tom Hawkins scored 31 points and crippled Indiana by drawing fouls. Three-time NCAA champion Baylor simply romped over Miami of Ohio, 94-70, despite 26 points by Wayne Embry.

At Lawrence, after Robertson fouled out, Cincinnati coach George Smith complained about three "charging" fouls called against him. Oklahoma State crushed Arkansas, 65-40, as 6-9 Arlen Clark showed the way with 20 points.

At San Francisco, California easily downed Idaho State, 34-23, as Earl Robinson took scoring honors with 13 points. In the Seattle-San Francisco game, the stage was set for Baylor when Art Day of San Francisco missed one of two free throws with 15 seconds, leaving a tie score tied at 67-67. Baylor then drove downcourt and uncorked his winning one-hander just before the gun.

Western Illinois (27-0) meets Tennessee A&M tonight in the final round of the NAIA tournament at Kansas City. Western Illinois rallied to beat Georgetown (Ky.), 86-81, and defending champion Tennessee A & I trounced Texas Southern, 110-85, in Friday night's semi-finals.

At San Francisco: California easily downed Idaho State, 34-23, as Earl Robinson took scoring honors with 13 points. United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD — It's a British military marching song dating back to World War I is cutting into rock 'n' roll record sales. It has many devices whistling its catchy tune. They aren't singing because the words are too strong for polite use.

Not much information is available on the piece which is known properly as "The River Kwai March and Colonel Bogey." Actually it's a combination of two tunes—the British one written in 1916 and called "Colonel Bogey" and "The River Kwai March," which was written for a movie and to be used with the older tune as counterpoint.

Columbia Studios, handling distribution of the movie, "The Bridge on the River Kwai," apparently was pleasantly surprised to find that the song from the film was a hit as well as the picture. They wrote hastily to England for information on the song. So far there's been no answer, and this is a little embarrassing. In fact, the nearest question asked today of Columbia publicity men is, "Say, just who was Colonel Bogey?"

Records show that "Colonel Bogey" was written in 1916 by Kenneth J. Arnold and published by the London firm of Hawker & Sons. Last year another Boston, Malcolm Arnold, wrote "The River Kwai March." Arnold, believed to be no relation to the "Bogey" Arnold, did the score for the movie. Both songs were recorded by three American record companies with the Kwai melody in the middle. It filled out the record and was a counterpoint to the "Bogey" tune.

Hollywood disc jockey Ira Cook said these three records aren't alone, however. He said Ted Heath did "Colonel Bogey" about five years ago and that there is a current one by Edmundo Ros done in Latin America tempo. Neither of these pared the three American has the Kwai melody. He compared the "Colonel Bogey" records with both melodies to records done of the theme music from "Picnic" in which "Moon-glow" was played in counterpoint with a melody written for the film.

An Instrumental

The best-selling American record now is Mitch Miller's, Columbia spokesman said. Cook said demand for the record is good, and prompts many calls from ex-GIs who used to whistle "Colonel Bogey" as they drilled during World War II.

"I'd announced the record as from the movie and immediately get calls telling me it wasn't original with the movie at all," he said. "It's safer to use both titles. The recording to us is an instrumental, and we expect it to do even better when mor people see the movie."

Studio people call the recording "a melody and counterpoint" and explain that it's whistled because the words are on the unprintable side. "In this day and age of music trends you will still find good music and the unexpected making the grade," said Morris Stoloff, head of the studio's music department. "We're delighted with its popularity."

Those who see the movie, a stirring story of British prisoners in a Japanese camp in World War II, and then hear the song again probably will associate it with a scene in which the hapless Tommies, many of them injured — march proudly into the prison camp as they whistle "Colonel Bogey."

No Women
Geniuses Asks
Doc Quigg

By DOC QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK — A prominent scientist in a congress of learned men in Los Angeles made so bold as to declare that the world has had no women geniuses, and even as he was speaking, the Moscow Radio was telling Russian women they should not wiggle as they walk.

Some people just don't know genius when they see it. No geniuses of the gentler sex? Has the man never heard of apple pie, or strawberry shortcake? These inventions were their genius. And how about the women who walk on high spike heels? There's a balancing feat of genius incarnate.

Sticks Neck Out

The man who so unwisely stuck his neck out in Los Angeles was a Britisher, and presumably he has plans to spirit himself out of the country before hell-bath-no-fury hit him.

His name is Dr. V. B. Green-Armstrong, former president of the Royal Society of Medicine, who prepared a paper called "The Paradox of Genius" for a meeting of the International Congress of Surgeons. Part of the paradox is his assertion that most of the world's geniuses have suffered from alcoholism, narcotic addiction, tuberculosis, or mental instability.

Sales Increase

And, he said, not a one has been female. But on the same day that his words buzzed around the world, another dispatch, giving the lie to his contention, came out of Stockholm. There, lady corset models increased sales of their wares 150 per cent by one act that is touched with the fire of creativity—they all put on harmonized spectacles, along with their corsets.
